Ideas worth spreading

Description: TED is a nonprofit devoted to spreading ideas, usually in the form of short, powerful talks (about 18 minutes or less). This professional learning opportunity invites you to watch any of 12 pre-selected TED videos and reflect on your professional practice. Some videos are directly related to education, others are more global.

Audience: This professional learning opportunity is open to all educators / administrators in D131.

Requirements: Choose as many or as few videos as you would like to watch. Click the arrow above to share your thoughts about the video(s). The same link and questions apply to all videos. Submit a separate reflection for each video you watch. Reflections are due by 8am on 1/10/18. Your responses will be compiled and emailed back to you during the week of 1/15/18.

PD Hours: Each reflection is worth .5 PD hours for a total of 6 possible PD hours with the submission of the ISBE evaluation in My Learning Plan.

Registration: MLP registration for this opportunity is OPEN from 12/21/17 to 1/9/18. Credit cannot be given for reflections without the MLP registration and ISBE evaluation.

Compensation: There is no compensation available for this activity.

Disclaimer: The views, thoughts, and opinions expressed in the videos belong solely to the speaker, and are only intended to inspire reflection on the part of the viewer.
